

Sinclair Broadcasting's attempt to influence the national election under the guise of "news" should demonstrate that this company abuses its power and does not deserve license renewal by the FCC. If this were truly news they would not be waiting for a strategic moment to air it.

Only if it agrees to equal time for the opposing view by showing a piece approved by the opposition in the same prominent time slot before the election, should Sinclair be considered adequately serving its position in the public trust.